It is quite desirable that each one be present, for the making of the final plans.

Sergt. Fred DeClerico, who has been visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. Lettini of the Miles building, during the past few days on a short leave of absence, left the city this forenoon for Lynn, Mass., where he will spend a few days at his home, before returning to Camp Devens, where he is attached to the quartermaster's corps.

Accompanied by an east hill man who was looking for his daughter, lost to him since the last big draft, from Washington county, Deputy Sheriff G. L. Morris returned this morning from a midnight ride to the town of Waterford, southeast from St. Johnsbury a distance of five miles. It is said that the missing one, a girl of 17, disappeared shortly before the Barre quota left for Camp Devens early in May. A draftee was suspected, but at the moment of departure for camp the girl's father interviewed him without success. Recently a report came indirectly that the girl was living in Waterford. Her father found the right track in that neighborhood, but was told to motor back to St. Johnsbury if he would locate her. The girl came back home with the deputy and her father.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Mollie King in "On the Square Girl," Bijou to-morrow.—adv.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Scribner and two children of St. Johnsbury called on friends in Barre yesterday.

Miss Annie Brown of Bassett street, who suffered an arm fracture in a fall sustained while she was employed as a clerk in the Tilden Shoe Co.'s store, is able to be out of doors.

Mario Bardosi arrived in the city last evening from Camp Wadsworth, Spartanburg, S. C., where he is at present stationed, to spend a short leave of absence at the home of his parents on Pleasant street. Mr. Bardosi is a member of the 1st Vermont regimental band, which was recruited shortly after the outbreak of hostilities and which has caused so much favorable comment throughout the New England states as well as in several other places in the eastern section of the country.

Among the arrivals at Hotel Barre last night and this morning were the following people: F. H. Adam of East Hampton, Conn., H. E. Drouin of St. Johnsbury, R. B. Hovey of Independence, Ia., J. T. Adams and R. P. Aldrich of Lyndonville, R. J. Hobart of Peacham, John B. Goodrich, Emma E. Goodrich and Celia Goodrich of South Royalton, H. E. W. Chutter of Swanton, R. Ross Gale of Plainfield, G. W. Harris of Burlington, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Blodgett of Woodville, N. H., Elsie J. Tucker of Joplin, Mo., George S. Rundlett of Lowell, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Scribner, Dorothy Scribner and Warren Scribner of St. Johnsbury, A. L. Walker of Burlington, G. E. Wilson of Burlington, R. A. Bosworth of Northampton, Mass.

During a dull hour in the Central Vermont freight yard yesterday afternoon traffic on the crossing near the freight office was blocked for a time as the result of an accident in which Dan Ladd of Orange and his pulpwood team figured rather conspicuously. Mr. Ladd's team had hauled to this city an unusually large load of pulpwood, and after the driver had satisfied his curiosity by weighing the load, he started his horses toward the freight yard. A wooden rear axle which had borne the brunt of the load while the wagon bumped its way down through the Orange hills refused longer to bear the burden and snapped in two just as the outfit hit the crossing. Railroad men and onlookers in the square fell to at the woodpile in order to clear the crossing before a train came.

TALK OF THE TOWN

C. F. Green, assistant superintendent of Forest Home cemetery in Milwaukee, Wis., who has been renewing acquaintances in Barre, has gone to Burlington for a brief visit before proceeding to Swanton, his former home, to pass the remainder of his vacation.

Ensign Orlando Olgianti, who has been visiting his mother for a few days while on a furlough from the navy, left to-day for New York, where he will make a brief sojourn before proceeding Monday to the U. S. naval academy at Annapolis for a special course of four months.

Misses Theresa Carroll of Becon street and Irene Lander of Washington street left this forenoon for a visit of a few days with friends in Hardwick. They expect to attend the annual commencement hall of the Hardwick academy, which is to be held there this evening.

Friends of Robert B. Knox of the 302d light field artillery, stationed at Camp Devens, will be interested to learn that he has been promoted to the rank of sergeant, having held a corporal's rating for several months. Sergeant Knox was one of the first Washington county boys to leave Barre for the national army.

While not claiming to be the smartest farmer hereabouts, Fred C. Eaton of Hill street is planning himself to a certain extent on having a meal of peas from his 1918 garden to-day. He planted the peas early, almost as soon as the frost was out of the ground, and his pioneer efforts were rewarded to-day with a good-sized dish.

An ingenious contrivance calculated to preserve ticket agents from the horrors of premature gray hair is in use at the Central Vermont station. It is a circular device which computes with all the rapidity of a lightning calculator the amount of the war tax which should be assessed against each ticket. Upon learning the traveler's destination, the girl at the window has only to locate the mileage on the indicator and turn it on the swivel to a point opposite an arrow. Then the arrow does the rest. It has an unvarying way of pointing out immediately the sum total of the tax to be levied on the desired ticket. The little tin assessor was devised by the Traveler's Insurance company.

A meeting of the Eagles will be held on Thursday evening, June 13, at 7:30 o'clock. Business, election of a treasurer. Let all attend.
